This tool captures exchanges organized between representatives of the media, positive women's network and activists, on media response to HIV/AIDS, and how issues of concern to people living with HIV/AIDS, especially women, must be represented in mass media. It is meant for media practitioners, media and communications experts, groups involved in media advocacy, AIDS activists, networks of people living with HIV/AIDS, and others working on gender and HIV/AIDS. This module emerged from exchanges between positive people, journalists, and activists through consultations and workshops organized by the Center for Advocacy and Research in New Delhi, and Positive Women's Network (PWN+) Chennai, and North East Network, Guwahati.
