In the "What gets measured matters" is paper, a follow-up to the 2007 "Show Us the Money: Is Violence Against Women on the HIV&AIDS donor agenda?" the Women Won't Wait campaign examines changes that have occurred since February 2007 at the policy, programming and funding levels at the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria, the President's Emergency Fund for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR/US), The World Bank, and UNAIDS (the Joint UN Programme on HIV/AIDS). Each section contains recommendations specific to each agency. The closing section of the report provides proposed actions that can be taken by women's rights, sexual and reproductive rights, HIV, human rights and other gender-equality seeking endeavours.
