

The global effort to combat HIV/AIDS has been one of the great public health achievements of the past decades. And today, as so many speakers this week have noted, we are closer to our goal of an AIDS-free world than ever before. Read full article here .