

Though sterilization can be an effective family planning option for many women, when performed without their prior and full informed consent, it is a serious violation of women's human rights, specifically their sexual and reproductive health and rights ( SRHR ).

Read the full article