

AIDS: A devastating setback in Africa but a drug from Canada offers hope

A small Toronto pharmaceutical company best known for making piglet vitamins is contributing to human trials for a drug that could hold the key to protecting women from AIDS.

Read more...