

A story of failure for World AIDS Day

World AIDS day traditionally has become an occasion for reciting statistics of a plague so overwhelming it remains beyond comprehension. Just one example: 3 million die a year--an average of 5.7 every minute of every day. But there was one AIDS day that was different and it was just two years ago. Read more...