

One step forward, two back, at AIDS summit

Warning that the battle against AIDS was at risk, the UN asked delegations at a major conference yesterday to stop opposing the mention of condoms, safe drug use and funding goals in a document that will help guide efforts to fight the illness over the next 10 years. Yet governments still disagreed strongly on those issues and others including drug patents, empowering girls, and exact financial targets. Read more...