

Traditionally, if a man admired a woman, he did not necessarily need to go through the courtship process but could simply carry the bride-to-be on his shoulders kicking and screaming to his home. Read full article here.